

Dataminr Careers Page FAQ

We are making improvements to our people and candidate platforms and therefore will be unable to accept new applications between May 22 and June 12, 2023.

Below are a set of questions and answers intended to help you navigate the candidate application experience during that time.

1. Why are there no jobs currently posted to Dataminr's careers page?

We're in the process of upgrading our people and candidate platforms to deliver a better, more seamless experience for our applicants and employees. These upgrades will be available starting June 12, 2023. Please return to our website on or after June 12 to explore and apply for open positions.

2. If I applied for a job prior to May 22, 2023 will my application still be reviewed?

Yes. Dataminr's talent acquisition team will continue to review applications received before May 22, and will schedule interviews and move candidates through our regular hiring process between now and June 12. If you have an open application, please continue to monitor your email for updates.

3. How do I get in touch with Dataminr's talent acquisition team to discuss my open application or other job opportunities?

If you are already in the process of interviewing and have questions, please reach out to your recruiter directly.

If you would like to get in touch with the talent acquisition team, please email TAREcruiter@dataminr.com. We also encourage you to join our Talent Community to get early access to job opportunities, plus career advice, employee success stories and company news.

4. When will I be able to apply to open jobs via Dataminr's careers page?

June 12, 2023. We welcome you to mark your calendar, bookmark our careers page and visit our website in the intervening period.
